Market Review

The FBMKLCI closed marginally higher, signalling continued resilience in Malaysia's domestic economy. Gains were led by technology and utilities counters, particularly those with strong domestic exposure. The rebound was supported by renewed optimism in the data centre segment and a sectoral rotation into defensive plays, as investors positioned cautiously amid heightened geopolitical tensions. Yesterday also marked the commencement of the China-Central Asia Summit in Astana, Kazakhstan. President Xi Jinping, along with the leaders of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan, and Uzbekistan, is expected to use the platform to reaffirm their collective commitment to multilateralism and to the preservation of a rules-based international trade system. The summit is also anticipated to reinforce the next phase of China's Belt and Road Initiative (BRI 2.0), with a likely emphasis on connectivity, digital infrastructure, and sustainable development across Eurasia

Among key index constituents, notable gainers QL (+3.7%), PETCHEM (+3.1%), and MISC (+1.3%). Sector wise, Healthcare (-1.9%) was the top performer, followed by Technology (-1.2%), and Financial Services (-0.8%). Market breadth was remained negative, with 321 gainers and 613 losers.

Asian stocks ended mostly higher on Monday as investors reacted to escalating tensions in the Middle East and a mixed bag of data from China. SHANGHAI CI rose 0.4% to 3,383.7 and HSI closed up 0.7% at 24,061.0. Chinese factory output growth hit a six-month low in May, while retail sales picked up steam, signaling potential resilience in consumer demand amid a fragile truce in the country's trade war with the United States.

The major European stock markets traded higher on Monday, reversing losses from the previous session as world leaders gathered in Canada for the G7 summit, which will address global security, economic resilience, and tech cooperation. Discussions to resolve the Middle East crisis will also be a top priority. The Israel-Iran conflict entered its fourth day, with fresh missile exchanges. Iranian strikes on Tel Aviv, Haifa, and Petah Tikva killed at least five, injured dozens, and damaged key infrastructure, including a power plant. Markets also looked ahead to monetary policy decisions from the Federal Reserve, the Bank of Japan and the Bank of England due later in the week. The STOXX 50 closed up 0.9% at 5,339.6.

After moving sharply higher early in the session, stocks gave back some ground over the course of the trading day on Monday but continued to turn in a strong performance. The major averages all ended the day firmly in positive territory, with NASDAQ jumped 1.5% to 19,701.2, the S&P 500 advanced 0.9% to 6,033.1 and the DOW climbed 0.8% at 42,515.1. The early rally on U.S. came as investors looked to pick up stocks at somewhat reduced levels following the previous session's nosedive, which came after Israel launched a series of airstrikes against Iran. While the clash between Israel and Iran continued over the weekend, investors appear optimistic the conflict will remain relatively contained. A report from the Wall Street Journal citing Middle Eastern and European officials said Iran has been urgently signaling that it seeks an end to hostilities and resumption of talks over its nuclear programs. "Despite a weekend of violence between the two countries, investors showed no signs of panicking, judging by movements in financial markets on Monday," said Russ Mould, investment director at AJ Bell.

MY: Reaffirms firm commitment to regional energy cooperation

Malaysia reaffirmed its firm commitment to driving regional energy cooperation with a focus on inclusivity and sustainability, as it chaired the 43rd Asean Senior Officials Meeting on Energy (SOME), held here on Monday. Ministry of Energy Transition and Water Transformation (Petra) secretary general Datuk Mad Zaidi Mohd Karli said the theme for Malaysia's energy sector engagements, "Powering Asean: Bridging Boundaries, Building Prosperity", reflects the broader vision of Malaysia's Asean chairmanship. "This theme is important to emphasise the need for energy and dynamism in driving the region's development to propel Asean forward. He also expressed confidence that Monday's discussions would deliver tangible progress aligned with Malaysia's Priority Economic Deliverables and Asean's 2025 priorities, particularly on key initiatives such as the Asean Power Grid Memorandum of Understanding, and the Terms of Reference for the Subsea Power Cable Development Framework. The 43rd Asean-SOME and its associated meetings began on Monday and will run until June 18, drawing around 250 delegates, including senior energy officials and representatives from the Asean Secretariat and the Asean Centre for Energy. (Bernama)

CN: Xi takes push for global sway to Central Asia with Kazakh visit

Chinese President Xi Jinping is heading to Kazakhstan for talks with Central Asian leaders, providing a counterpoint to a Group of Seven (G7) summit by visiting a vast region at the nexus of competing interests from Washington to Beijing. Xi, who's making only his third overseas trip this year, will meet with Kazakh President Kassym-Jomart Tokayev on Monday, and attend the second gathering of the leaders of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Tajikistan, Turkmenistan and Uzbekistan the following day. The summit in the Kazakh capital Astana is taking place in parallel to the G7 event in Canada, and comes days after US Secretary of State Marco Rubio met Kazakhstan's foreign minister in Washington. Xi hosted the inaugural China-Central Asia Summit in the Chinese city of Xi'an two years ago. A key objective for Xi in Kazakhstan, where he launched the sprawling Belt and Road infrastructure initiative more than a decade ago, is "future-proofing" China's economy for a potential rift with the US, according to Kate Mallinson, a partner at PRISM Strategic Intelligence Ltd in London. (Bloomberg)

US: Trump administration weighs adding 36 countries to travel ban, memo says

US President Donald Trump's administration is considering significantly expanding its travel restrictions by potentially banning citizens of 36 additional countries from entering the US, according to an internal State Department cable seen by Reuters. Earlier this month, the Republican president signed a proclamation that banned the entry of citizens from 12 countries, saying the move was needed to protect the US against "foreign terrorists" and other national security threats. The directive was part of an immigration crackdown Trump launched this year at the start of his second term, which has included the deportation to El Salvador of hundreds of Venezuelans suspected of being gang members, as well as efforts to deny enrolments of some foreign students from US universities and deport others. In an internal diplomatic cable signed by US Secretary of State Marco Rubio, the State Department outlined a dozen concerns about the countries in question and sought corrective action. (Reuters)

Canada; UK: Agree to establish trade working group, expand defence collaboration

Canada and the UK agreed on Sunday to set up a trade working group which will submit its recommendations to the prime ministers of the respective countries within the next six months, a joint statement by the two governments said. British Prime Minister Keir Starmer arrived in Canada for bilateral meetings with Prime Minister Mark Carney before the G7 leaders' summit in Alberta from Sunday to Tuesday. Carney has been reaching out to allies to strengthen and diversify the country's trade as its industries, especially steel, aluminum and automobiles, face US tariffs. The working group would seek to address market access barriers, expand arrangements into areas such as digital trade, and explore cooperation to develop critical minerals and artificial intelligence infrastructure, the statement said. While the UK is an important trading partner for Canada, it represents only a small share of Canada's exports. (Reuters)

CN: Trump's budget cuts prompt China to review risks of US data void

China's government is reviewing the fallout for the nation's scientific research from President Donald Trump's moves to withdraw funding from some US agencies and halt publication of certain categories of data. Several Chinese ministries and bodies have in recent weeks started assessing potential disruption to their work and made efforts to determine the extent to which some activities have become reliant on data published by the US, according to people familiar with the matter. Agencies carrying out reviews include the Chinese Academy of Sciences, China Meteorological Administration, Ministry of Natural Resources and Ministry of Agriculture and Rural Affairs, one of the people said. One area of work facing potential disruption has been studies of coral bleaching in the South China Sea, according to another person. Chinese researchers had used a product made available by the US National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, or NOAA, that published coastal water temperatures, which was decommissioned last month, the person said.
