

LBS Bina Group Berhad (5789)

Long-Term Trendline Breakout

Technical Highlights

The stock last closed at RM0.470, rallying upon forming breakout above its two-year trendline. As LBS's 4QFY25 results came above expectations last week, the stock printed a strong bullish candle, as it breaks above its resistance turned support at RM0.435. Previously, the stock had been trading in a downtrend for the past two years, forming a bullish trend reversal in mid of February.

Momentum indicators are bullish and indicate strong buying pressure, as the leading RSI enters the overbought zone, while the lagging MACD line is well above the signal line. The stock had successfully crossed above its 200-day EMA, signaling a key trend reversal to a long-term bullish outlook. Concurrently, the price continues to trade well above its 20- and 50-day EMAs, as the 20-day EMA formed a bullish crossover above the 50-day EMA.

On the upside, the immediate target is RM0.482, with further strength potentially extending towards RM0.491 should momentum build. Conversely, a breach below its support levels would invalidate the bullish outlook and expose the stock to further downside.

Consolidation Zone Breakout

Technical Highlights

The stock last closed at RM1.490, establishing support at RM1.460 upon successfully breaking out of its two-year consolidation zone. Prior to consolidating, the price had actually formed a breakout above its two-year trendline back in 2024. We view the recent breakout as a strong bullish indicator, as the current structure suggests the trend reversal to be confirmed, having made two critical breakouts.

Momentum indicators remain bullish, as the RSI remains above the 50-level, while the MACD line is yet to cross below the signal line. This signals near-term correction, as the price had rallied to its 52-week high recently. Meanwhile, the stock continues to trade well above all of its EMAs, indicating sustained bullish outlook in the near to long-term.

On the upside, the immediate target is RM1.561, with further strength potentially extending towards RM1.629 should momentum build. Conversely, a breach below its support levels would invalidate the bullish outlook and expose the stock to further downside.

Glossary of commonly used technical terms

Exponential Moving Average (EMA)	An indicator frequently used in technical analysis showing the average value of a security's price over a set period with greater weightage placed on the most recent data points.
Moving Average Convergence Divergence (MACD)	A trend-following momentum indicator that shows the relationship between two moving averages of prices. The MACD is calculated by subtracting the 26-day exponential moving average (EMA) from the 12-day EMA. A 9-day EMA of the MACD, called the "signal line", is then plotted on top of the MACD, functioning as a trigger for buy and sell signals.
Stochastic	A technical momentum indicator that compares a security's closing price to its price range over a given time period. The indicator's sensitivity to market movements can be reduced by adjusting the time period or by taking a moving average of the result.
Average True Range (ATR)	A measure of volatility whereby the indicator is the greatest of the following: - current high less the current low; - the absolute value of the current high less the previous close; - the absolute value of the current low less the previous close;
Bollinger Band	A band plotted 2 standard deviations away from a simple moving average.
On-Balance Volume (OBV)	A method used in technical analysis to detect momentum, the calculation of which relates volume to price change. OBV provides a running total of volume and shows whether this volume is flowing in or out of a given security.
Support	The price level which, historically, a stock has had difficulty falling below. It is thought of as the level at which a lot of buyers tend to enter the stock.
Resistance	The price at which a stock or market can trade, but not exceed, for a certain period of time. Often referred to as "resistance level".
Reversal	A change in the direction of a price trend. On a price chart, reversals undergo a recognizable change in the price structure. An uptrend, which is a series of higher highs and higher lows, reverses into a downtrend by changing to a series of lower highs and lower lows. A downtrend, which is a series of lower highs and lower lows, reverses into an uptrend by changing to a series of higher highs and higher lows.
Divergence	When the price of an asset and an indicator, index or other related asset move in opposite directions.
Overbought	In technical analysis, this term describes a situation in which the price of a security has risen to such a degree – usually on high volume – that an oscillator has reached its upper bound. This is generally interpreted as a sign that the price of the asset is becoming overvalued and may experience a pullback.
Oversold	A situation in technical analysis where the price of an asset has fallen to such a degree – usually on high volume – that the oscillator has reached a lower bound. This is generally interpreted as a sign that the price of the asset is becoming undervalued and may represent a buying opportunity for investors
